Karie is seeking women who have been treated for breast cancer to participate in an art therapy support group as part of a research study on identity and cancer. Women must be between the ages of 35-55, and have completed treatment between June 2014 – December 2015(may still be receiving hormone therapy or anticipating reconstructive surgery).

By the end of the six weeks, participants will have:

- Knowledge and familiarity with new art materials and techniques
- Experienced the support and encouragement of being part of a group of like-minded women
- A stronger sense of identity from looking at their cancer experience through art making.

For full details or to be considered for participation in this master's research study, email Allison.DeCamillis@GildasClubTwinCities.org with "Research Participant" in the subject line.

Karie Amstutz is conducting a research study to fulfill degree requirements for a master's degree in Art Therapy and Marriage and Family Therapy.

Her study aims to find out about the effectiveness of art-making to resolve identity concerns for women who have experienced breast cancer.
